Maximizes the transport of energy-rich electrons*

Transformation's Professional Protocol Electron Transport is a unique blend of vitamins, minerals and nutrients that support healthy energy production and mitochondrial function at the cellular level. Doctors are using Electron Transport for:

- Increased energy or low vitality
- Fatigue
- Oxidative stress
- Extra energy support during exercise

This product provides support to the electron transport system. The electron transport chain is strategically situated in the inner mitochondrial membrane and represents the final common pathway by which electron-rich intermediates are converted into ATP, the basic energy fuel of the human body. Countless metabolic dysfunctions are directly linked to a blockage or dysfunction of this vital system. TPP Electron Transport's formula of vitamins, minerals and enzymes is designed to support the peak performance of this energy-producing chain, ensuring the delivery of energy-rich electrons throughout the body.
